DEDICATION

BISMILLAH IR RAHMAN IR RAHIM,

I wanted to first start off by thanking Allah SWT for giving me this opportunity to have this book come to life. Without his help, I am nothing. I also want to dedicate this book to my parents for all of their unconditional love and support, to my sons who I love so dearly, and to all of my family and friends.

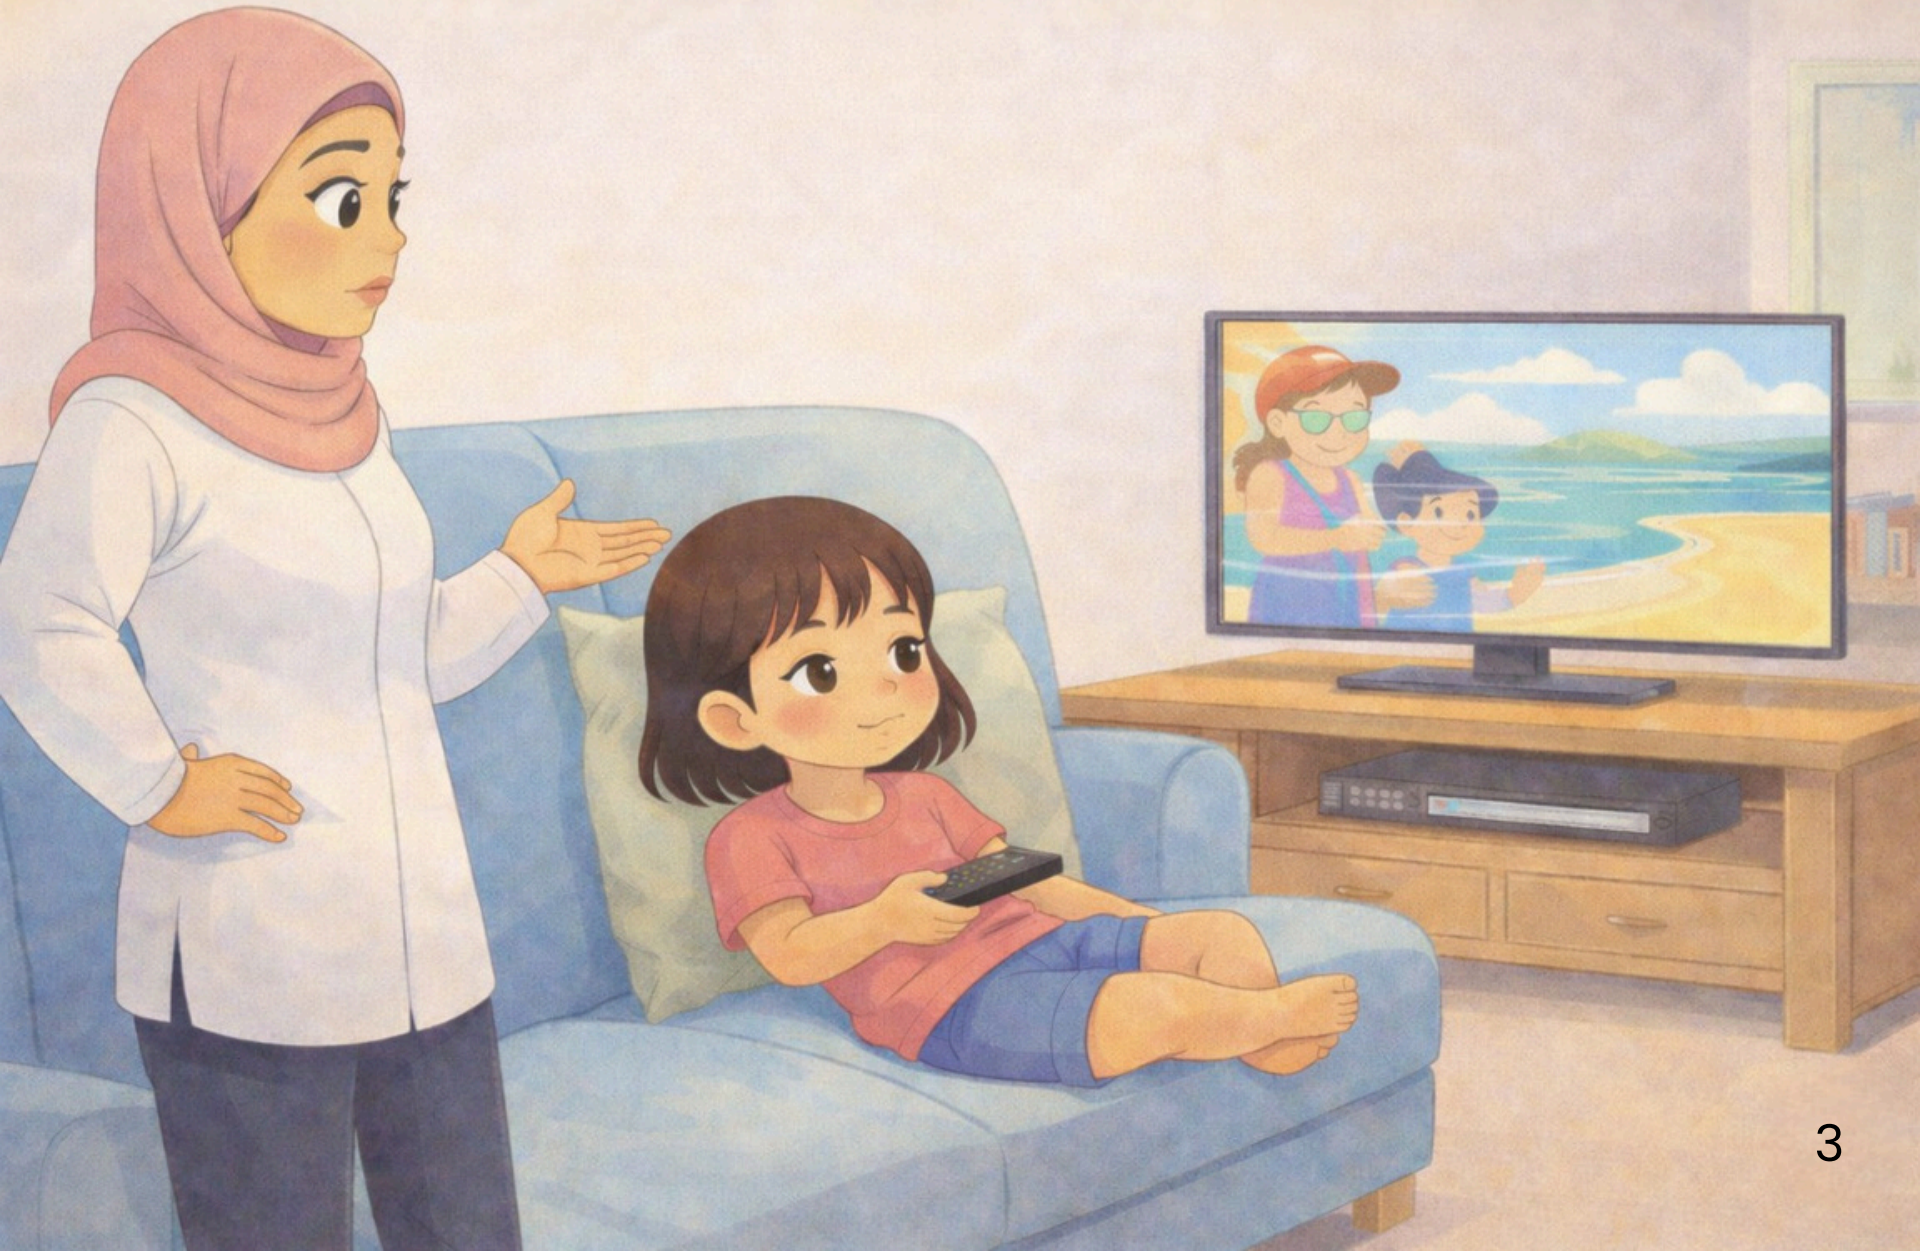

PROLOGUE

Sophia loved to play and dream about fun days with her family and friends. Studying wasn't her favorite thing to do, but she was about to learn that trying her best and making good choices can lead to happy moments.

Sophia doesn't care about the test, instead she is thinking about going to the beach on Saturday with her family.

At home Sophia's mom tells Sophia to study for the test. But she refuses instead she just watches TV.

An illustration of a bedroom scene. On the left, a woman wearing a pink hijab and a white long-sleeved shirt stands in a doorway, looking sternly at a young girl. She has her right hand on the door handle and her left hand extended. In the center, a speech bubble contains the text 'Sophia, I sent you to your room to study.' On the right, a young girl with short brown hair, wearing a red t-shirt and blue shorts, is smiling and playing with a colorful beach ball. She is barefoot. The room features a bed with a pink and white checkered blanket and a brown teddy bear on the pillow. A purple nightstand with a yellow star lamp and a framed picture of a rainbow is visible. The background wall is light purple.

Sophia, I sent you to your room to study.

Sophia's mom turns off the TV and sends Sophia to her room to study. Instead Sophia plays with her bouncy ball.

The next day Sophia takes her Math test, she doesn't remember anything as she did not study for her test, and she panics.

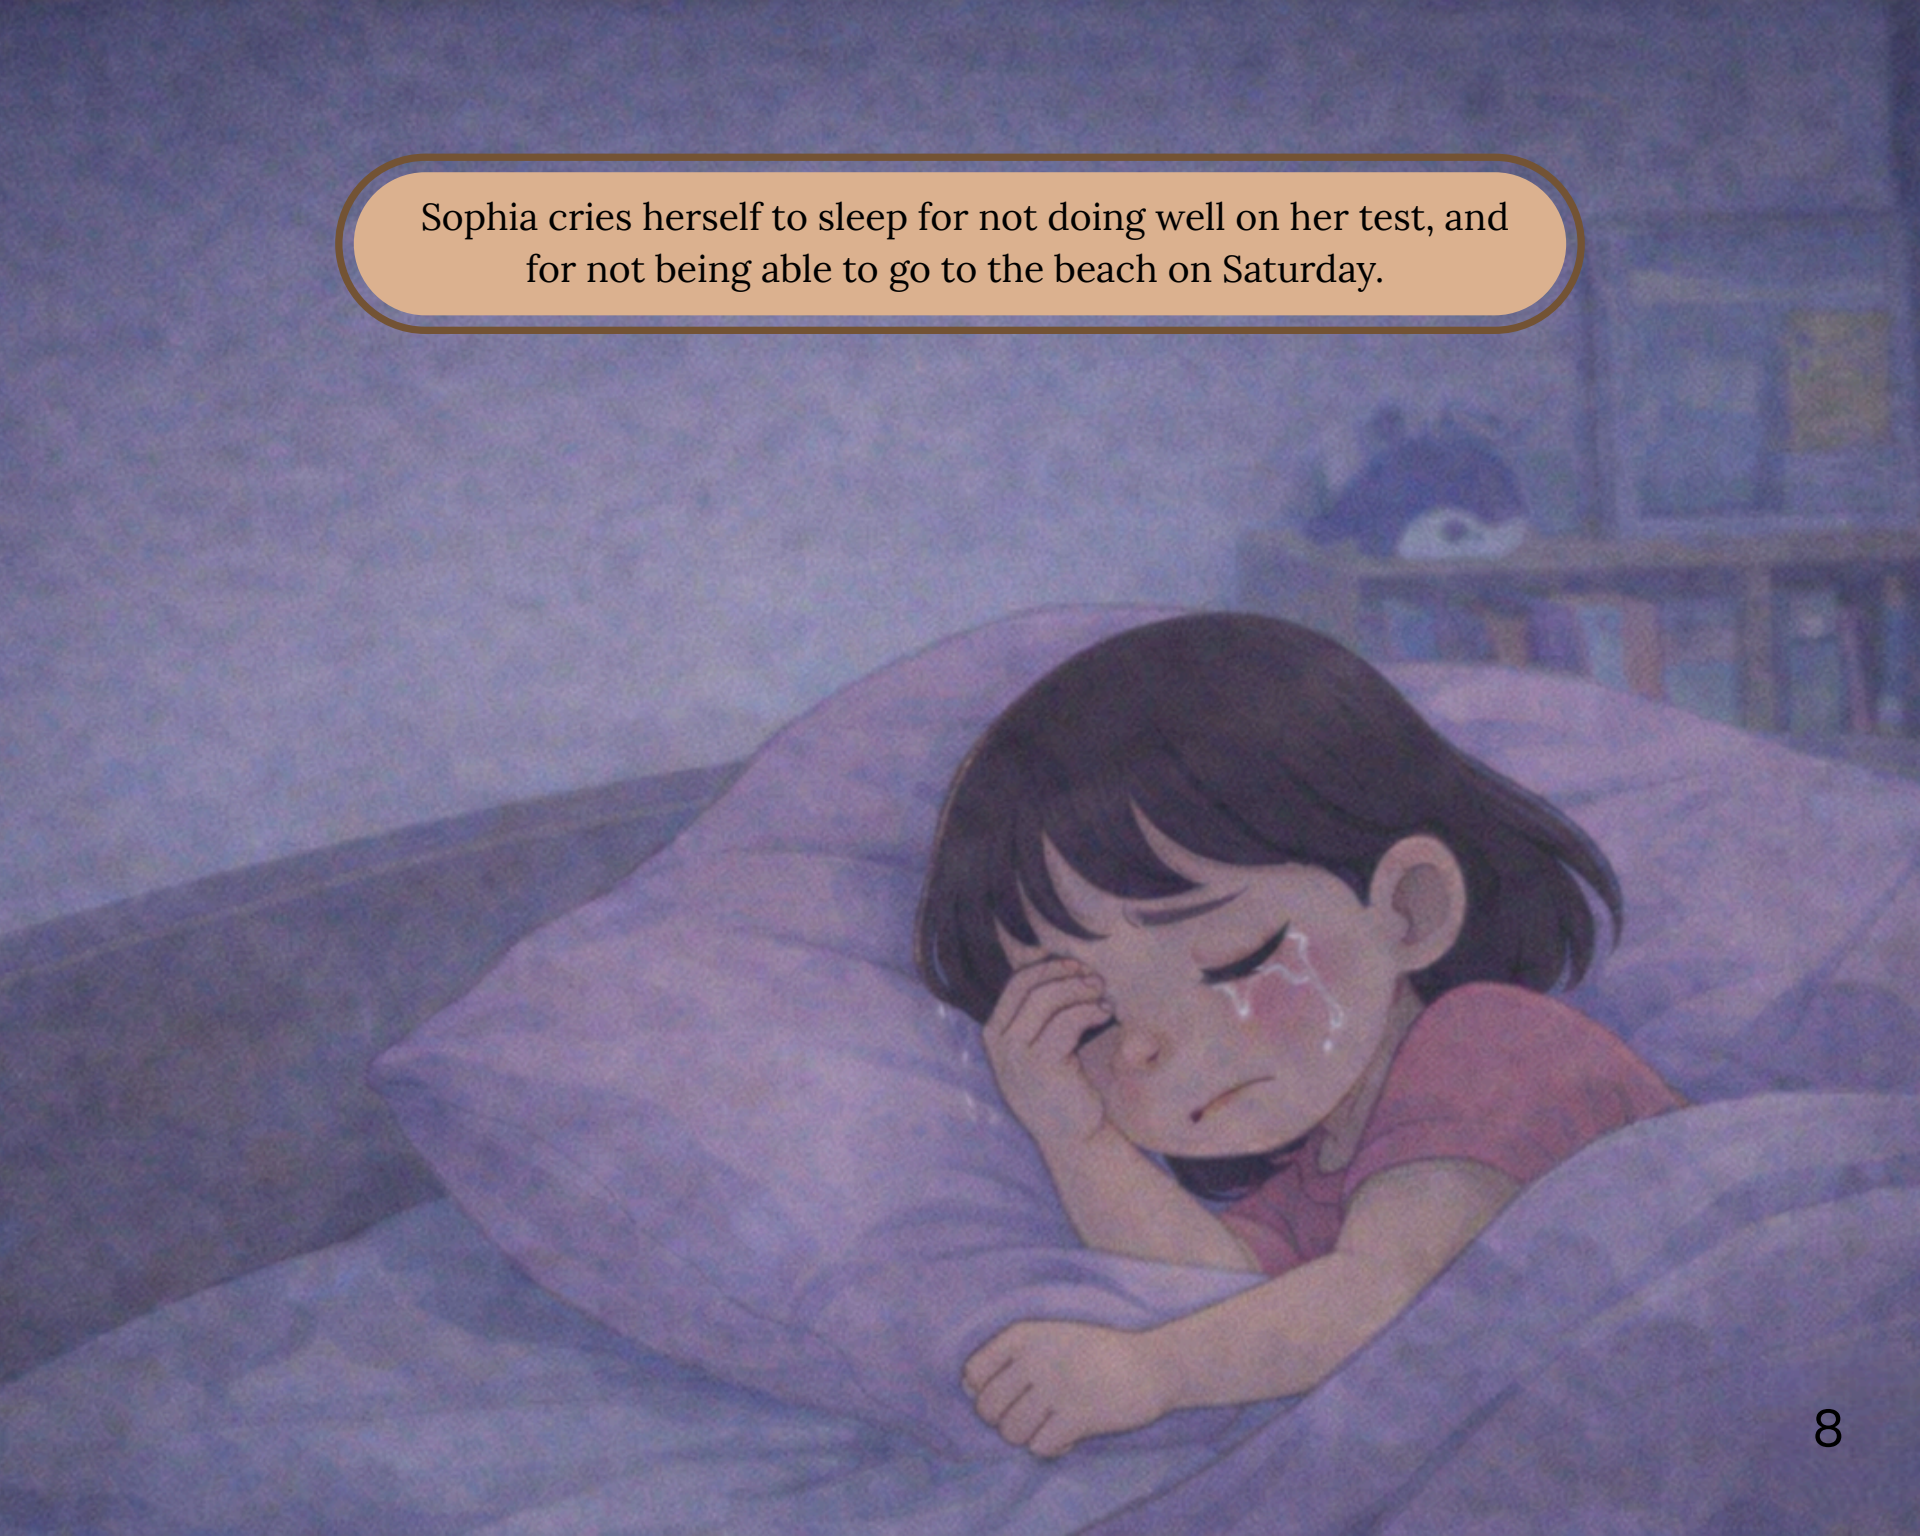

At the end of the day Mrs. Khan hands back the tests, and Sophia has failed her test. Mrs. Khan is not happy with Sophia.

Sophia comes home and shows mom and dad her test. They are both angry and send her to her room. She isn't going to go to the beach on Saturday now.

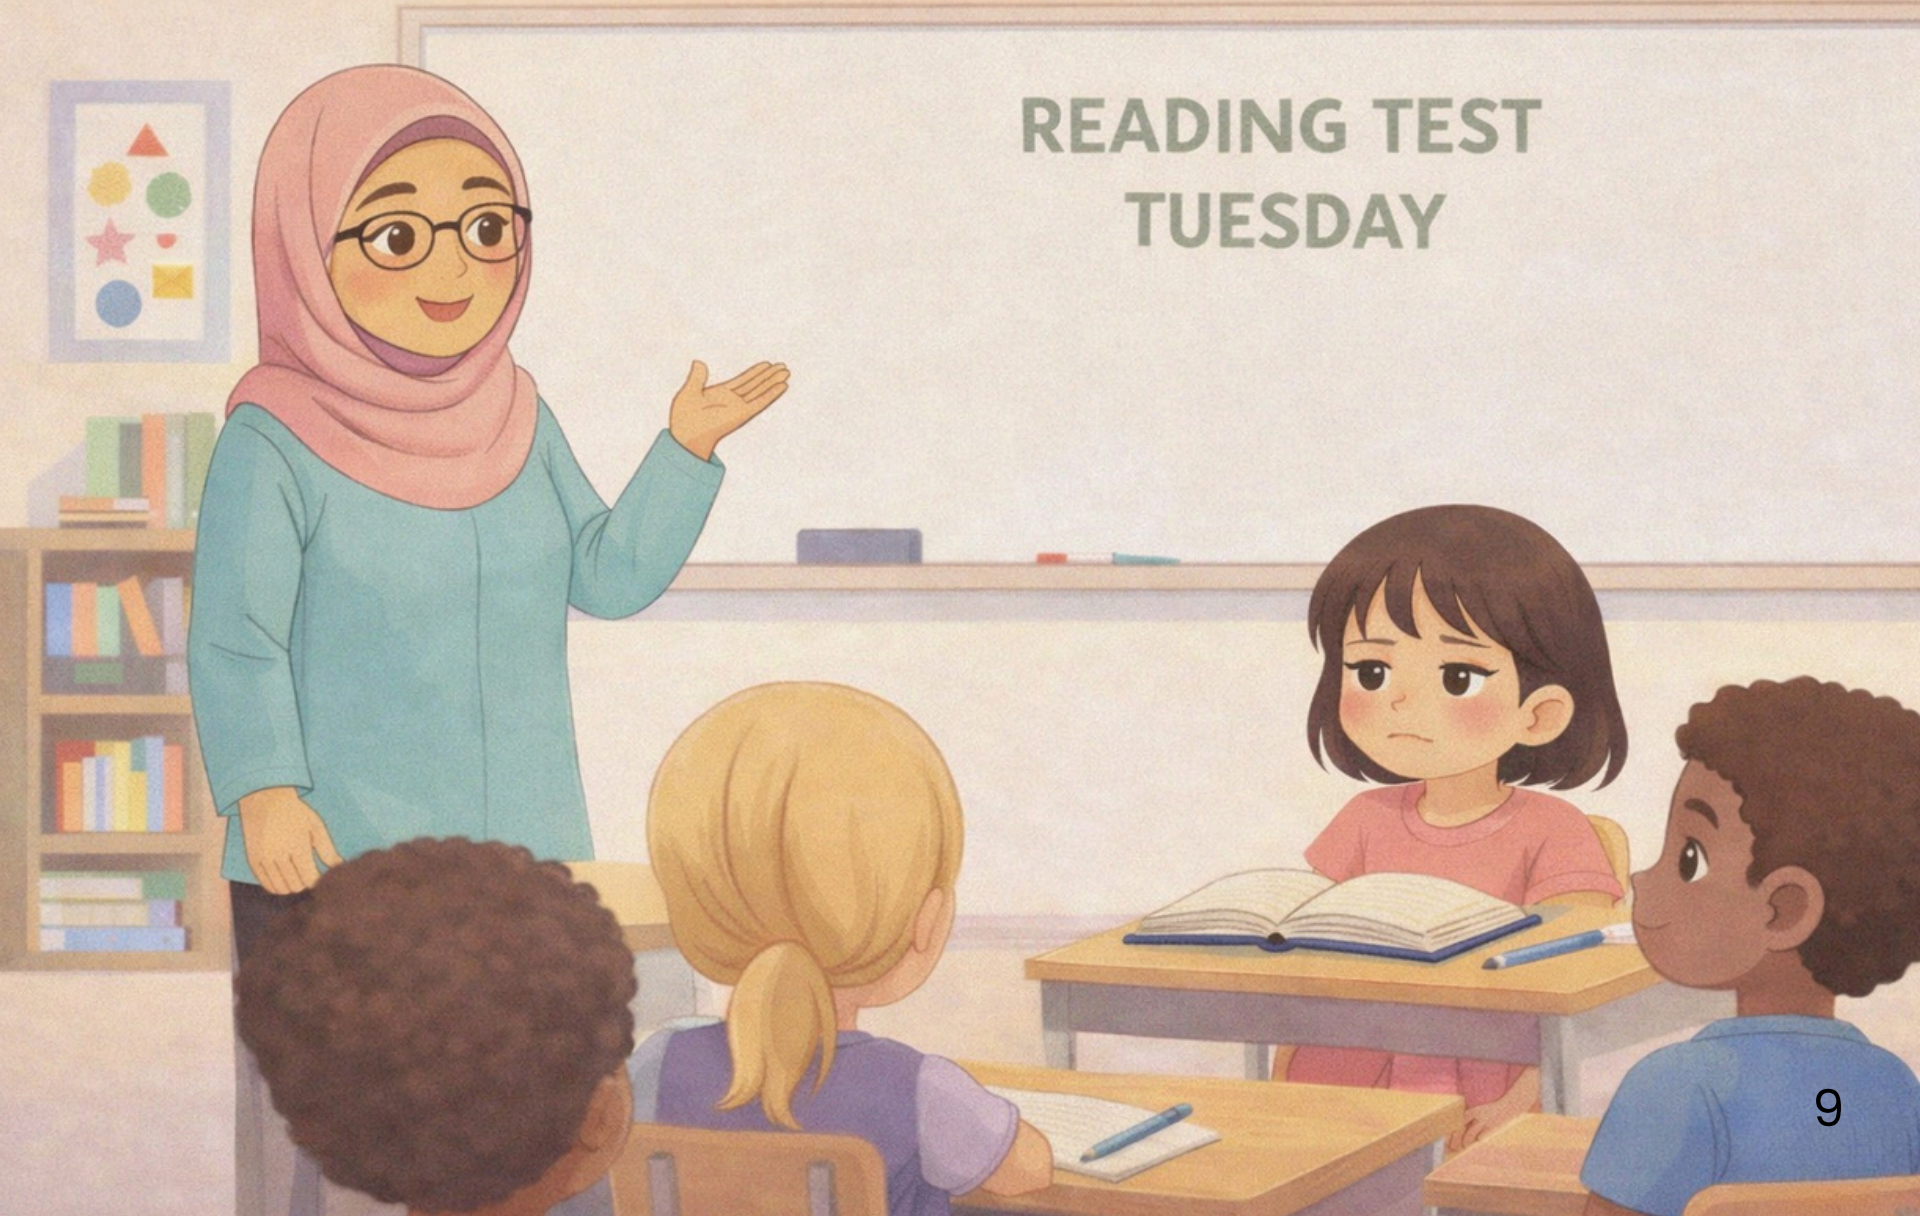

Sophia cries herself to sleep for not doing well on her test, and for not being able to go to the beach on Saturday.

The next Monday Mrs. Khan announces that there will be a Reading test on Tuesday.

READING TEST TUESDAY

An illustration of a mother and daughter in a bedroom. The mother, wearing a pink hijab and a white long-sleeved shirt, is sitting on the edge of a bed and looking down at her daughter with a serious expression. The daughter, with dark hair in a ponytail and wearing an orange shirt, is sitting on the floor and looking up at her mother. A speech bubble from the mother contains the text. In the background, there is a bookshelf with books, a nightstand with a blue piggy bank, and a framed picture of a rainbow on the wall.

If you don't do well on your test
then you cannot attend Aisha's birthday party on Friday.

Sophia comes home and her mom tells her that if she doesn't do well on her test then she cannot attend her best friend Aisha's birthday party on Friday.

Sophia starts to study for her test in her room.

The next day Sophia takes her test, and she knows the answers to all of the questions, she also feels good about the test too.

Mrs. Khan hands back the tests at the end of the day, and Sophia gets a 100%. Mrs. Khan is proud of Sophia.

Sophia comes home and shows her parents her test, mom and dad are proud of Sophia.

We're so proud of you, Sophia!

Sophia gets to attend her best friend Aisha's birthday party,
and has a good time.

THANKYOU

Jazak Allahu Khairan

for taking the time out to read this book with your little one.

May Allah SWT increase you and your little one in knowledge of the Deen. Ameen.
